

Advance Your Career With a Master's Degree!

“I wanted to address housing issues in my community, but I did not feel I could tackle this challenging project effectively and with confidence. I sought out the Carsey School of Public Policy for its applied learning graduate degrees and the ability to bring my own preconceived project to the program in the form of a capstone. My classes have laid a strong foundation for achieving my capstone project goals and I owe that knowledge and confidence to the high-quality instructors and programming provided through the Carsey School.”

James Vayo
MCA '19

NeighborWorks Community Economic Development Certification

carsey.unh.edu

Carsey/NeighborWorks Alliance Program

Carsey/NeighborWorks Education Award: Employees and board members of NeighborWorks and NeighborWorks member organizations may be eligible for up to $2,500 in Education Awards to pursue a Master in Community Development degree.

Carsey/NeighborWorks Graduate Credit Award: Students enrolled in the Master in Community Development program who have earned a NeighborWorks Professional Certificate may be eligible to receive up to 6 graduate-level credits (2 courses) toward their degree.

NeighborWorks also offers discounts for courses taken at their NTIs and through their eLearning/eClassroom Express platform for Master in Community Development students.

The Carsey School Advantage

- » Our flexible programs fit into your life, offering part-time, low residency, hybrid learning.
- » Start Summer Fall, or Spring.
- » Engage in hands-on learning and grow your network of dedicated public service professionals.
- » Achieve your full potential, effect change, and advance your career.

To learn more, contact:
Jordan.Hensley@unh.edu.

University of
New Hampshire

Carsey School of Public Policy