

SERVE & LEARN

Educational Opportunities for Those Committed to Public Service

The Carsey School of Public Policy's Serve & Learn program offers free and discounted credit-bearing, practitioner-based courses to those who have worked in, or intend to work in, public service activities that have been materially changed by COVID-19. These courses will support them in their work and can jump-start a UNH undergraduate or graduate degree. Public and private sector employment and volunteer work can qualify. This work can be done in any industry, including the Business, Government, and Nonprofit sectors.

COURSE INFORMATION

During UNH's January term (Dec. 28 – Jan. 22), qualifying individuals can enroll in a free credit-bearing online course taught by members of the Carsey and NH Listens team. Available to high school graduates at the undergraduate level and those who have already earned a bachelor's degree, this 3-credit class aims to bridge the gap between the practical aspects in COVID-19 preparedness, relief, and response efforts, and the theories and skills associated with public engagement, equity, and dialogue in public spaces. The deadline to apply is December 15.

COURSE NAME

Public Engagement in Communities – Using an Equity Lens as a Reflective Practitioner

QUALIFICATIONS

- 1) Be working toward or have already earned a bachelor's degree
- 2) Been involved in or expect to be involved in COVID-19 response and preparedness efforts
